Chère Madame Bianda,

I should like to thank you for the kind reception at the Festival.

Because of the confusion surrounding my departure yesterday evening by night train to Brussels, I should like to ask for some clarification concerning the cachet accorded to me in relation to the amount specified in your letter of 19th June.

Unfortunately I was asked to sign for the amount seconds after being called to the podium by René Berger, so that I was unable to check or query the amount at the time.

I do not think that my arrival on the morning of the 2nd or my departure on the evening of the 3rd could have affected your calculations, except that I kept the room for the day of the 3rd -- as originally envisaged. Nor do I think that my absence on other days affected the function which I was invited to perform on the 3rd. And again, I do not think that the fact that I travelled by train could have affected your calculations.

Clearly I am somewhat perplexed and would appreciate any clarification.

Sincerely yours

Anthony J N Judge
Secrétaire Générale Adjoint
